PGA Professional Oliver “Olly” Thomson Brings Year-Round Golf Coaching and Indoor Play to Madison/Gluckstadt

Open Tee Indoor Golf Center opens June 1 with Trackman iO technology, private simulator bays, coaching, leagues, 24/7-member access, and founding member discounts now available.

MADISON/GLUCKSTADT, Miss. — Open Tee Indoor Golf Center is set to open June 1, 2026, bringing a new year-round golf experience to the Madison and Gluckstadt area led by PGA Professional Oliver “Olly” Thomson.

With more than 25 years of coaching and golf industry experience, Thomson will lead the coaching and player-development programs at Open Tee, helping golfers of all skill levels improve their game using modern indoor technology in a relaxed, accessible setting.

Located at 547 Church Road in Gluckstadt, alongside Magnolia Pickleball and the soon-to-open Down South Bar & Grill, Open Tee has been designed for golfers who want more convenient access to practice, coaching, and play without being limited by weather, daylight, or traditional tee times. The facility features private indoor simulator bays powered by Trackman iO technology, giving players accurate ball and club data, instant feedback, virtual rounds on more than 400 world-class courses, and structured practice opportunities.

“Open Tee is about making golf easier to fit into real life,” said Thomson. “Whether someone is brand new to the game, trying to lower their handicap, helping their child get started, or just looking for a fun place to play with friends, we want this to be a place where people feel comfortable, supported, and excited to come back.”

Open Tee will offer individual coaching, junior development opportunities, practice sessions, virtual rounds, leagues, tournaments, private events, and corporate outings. Members will have 24/7 keyless access, while limited hourly booking options will also be available for guests.

The center is also focused on creating a welcoming environment for families, local businesses, and the wider community. By combining PGA-led instruction with premium simulator technology, Open Tee aims to give players a better way to practice with purpose, play more often, and enjoy golf year-round.

Open Tee is also working with local businesses to create member benefits and partner offers, giving members added value while helping support and promote businesses in the Madison and Gluckstadt community.

“Indoor golf is changing the way people learn and play,” Thomson added. “With the right technology and the right coaching environment, players can understand their game faster and build confidence in a way that carries onto the course.”

Open Tee Indoor Golf Center will officially open June 1, 2026. Founding member discounts are now available, with membership details, booking information, and updates available at www.openteeindoorgolf.com.
